2007 LEITRIM GUARDIAN LAUNCH

Below: Maggie Cunningham reading the 2007 Guardian at last years launch. Her grandson Matthew is on her left, and her son Michael is on her right. Maggie's sudden death on St Valentine's night—14th Feb 2007—left many people missing a dear friend. She loved everything about Leitrim and lived her life to the full here. Maggie was the editor's mother. She will always be remembered with love and gratitude by all the Cunningham (and McHugh) family.

The cover picture of an old Irish Dresser, has a collection of 40 mugs on it. These mugs are unique, one-off, creations. Each one bearing a Leitrim placename. They were commissioned and produced by Charlie Roysted, Shannonbridge Pottery specially to commemorate the 40th anniversary of the Guardian. The place-names include the homeplace of each member of the Ladies team. These mugs are being kindly donated by Shannonbridge Pottery and the proceeds of the sale will be given to North West Hospice. The pictures were taken at Glenview Folk Museum, Aghoo. Special thanks to Brian Kennedy for the use of his premises. To Nick at Trinity Rare Books, Carrick-on-Shannon for the collection of first editions. And to photographer John Reynolds, Drumsna, at David Knight Photography for the great pictures and the professional approach.
